

LUND
UNIVERSITY

First Sound Economic History Workshop

June 16, 2006

Department of Economics, University of Copenhagen

Time: 9:45am to 5:15pm

Place: The University Main Building, Frue Plads (HO1)

Keynote Speaker: Giovanni Federico

(CEPR, European University Institute, Florence)

on

“Will genetic engineering save the world? Lessons from history”

After the keynote lecture, nine young scholars based in Scandinavia will present their work, demonstrating the breadth of Economic History as an academic discipline. Topics covered will range from prehistoric agriculture and historical trade policy to border effects in modern Europe and the estimation of social capital.

Students and faculty with an interest in economic history or relevant research background are invited to attend.

Please register with the workshop secretary Mirtha Saavedra, mcs@econ.ku.dk

For the detailed programme including the titles of the papers to be presented, please go to www.econ.ku.dk/ehw

Supported by the sound economic history seminar

Copenhagen Organisers: Paul R. Sharp and Jacob L. Weisdorf

Lund Organisers: Kerstin Enflo, Jonas Helgertz, Tobias Karlsson and Mats R. Persson

Senior Supervisors: Karl Gunnar Persson and Lennart Schön